District Sprays Elm Trees to Protect the Foliage—May Need Second Bath.

Eighty-five hundred elm trees located on the various thoroughfares of the capital will have received before tonight their annual baths of arsenate of lead, which is the means adopted by the District government of protecting them against the ravages of the elm leaf dications are that every elm in the city will have been sprayed by late this aft-

According to Mr. Lanham, the destruc-ive parasite has appeared to a limited extent so far, and it is believed that the coating of arsenate of lead given the trees will make it difficult for it to develop on an extensive scale. If the first spraying is found to be in sufficient, however, the trees will be given

The war on parasites which affect other shade trees of the capital probably will not be commenced until June. Two highpower spraying machines are owned by the District which will be used in protecting the trees against foliage-destroy-ing insects of all kinds.

Although unfavorable weather was re sponsible for a late start in planting new rees this year, most of the trees, according to Supt. Lanham, are growing and it will be necessary to replace but few of oriental planes, gingkos and other kinds.
